PMINZ update – June

Dear <<First Name>>

We are halfway through the year already, and we thought we'd let you know what has been accomplished in the first six months of this year.

- We have a new Constitution which better reflects us.
- We have a website strategy and content management plan.
- We have a PMI NZ chapter style guide to help ensure consistency and quality to our external and internal communications.
- Our email communications to you (invitations, announcements, and newsletters) have a fresh new look.
- The first of the regional member focus groups was held in Auckland.
- We have a team of volunteer business analysts working to load the content into Promapp (the online tool that documents all PMINZ's processes, guides and workflows).
- Branches are offering a range of social and networking events and some are being live-streamed.

Lots of other things are in progress. We'll update you again towards the end of the year on the next six months accomplishments.

Feel free to contact the portfolio leads or contact your branch chair for specific information on specific areas in the meantime.

If you have been watching the America's Cup on TV, you will be familiar with the incredible technology provided by Animated Research Limited (ARL).

The Dunedin-made technology on show in Bermuda includes virtual eye footage, a mobile application used by teams including New Zealand for post-race analysis, and a simulator which enables people at the cup village to try "sailing" a yacht.

Masterclasses partner with the conference to provide an in depth learning opportunity. There are six great masterclass options at this year's conference to choose from on 20 September.

Iain Fraser is facilitating two masterclasses that can be paired together.

IMentoring Progamme

Matthew Percival, PMINZ National Mentoring Manager and the Branch Mentoring Coordinators have been busy revitalising the mentoring programme that will be fully delivered by PMINZ in 2018.

The programme aims to:

- provide an environment for chapter members to develop project management skills through one-on-one relationships.

- provide an opportunity for individuals to build new networks within the industry, improving their networking and communication skills.
- contribute to members' individual growth (both mentors and mentees).
- enhance the reputation of the PMINZ Chapter by providing a valuable service to members.
